Grieving family challenges state drunk driving laws

By Elizabeth Ferszt

One year ago last month, the Seifried family of Allegan County experienced the worst kind of tragedy possible: the loss of their 8-month-old daughter, Lucia Iris. On April 26, 2025, a drunk driver plowed into their front yard while the family was relaxing, watching the sunset over Base Line Lake, in Trowbridge Twp.

"We were just sitting in our front yard watching the sunset, and all of a sudden this truck is coming straight for us," Lucia's dad, Matthew Seifried, said.

The man who killed their daughter, Terry Lee Boss, age 58, was sentenced to 13 years and 6 months in an MDOC prison, on March 3, 2026, by Hon. Judge Emily W. Jipp. According to 48th Circuit Court records, he was offered, and posted, a $500,000 surety bond on Aug 6, 2025. He plead 'Nolo Contendere' on January 20, 2026 to three charges: Homicide — Murder — Second Degree (MCL 750.317); Operating while intoxicated causing death (MCL 257.6254); and Reckless Driving causing death (MCL 257.6264).

Boss still also faces a balance of $27,004.84 in court fines and other fees.

Matthew Seifried and his wife, (Lucia's mom) Rebecca Seifried have done everything they can to prevent this occurrence from happening again, including creating a large banner that they hung in their neighborhood, reminding drivers to slow down on the curving roads around the lake.

After also facing several instances of cruel reality following an unexpected death of a child, the Siefreids now are suffering financially.

"Not only did we lose the most important thing in our life, our child, but we immediately had funeral costs; we also maxed out our out-of-pocket max for medical insurance, not only for Lucia's medical bills, but for Matthew as well as our dog. (Matthew Seifreid and the family dog were also injured in the crash). We had veterinarian bills. So we quickly reached over $50,000 in debt," Rebecca Seifreid said.

But they have enlisted the help of their local state legislator, Sen. Thomas Albert (R-Lowell), who worked with the Seifreids to create "Lucia's Law" a new package of laws that would tighten loopholes around drunk driving deaths:

"What these bills do is first put the victim first, close loopholes, and lastly ensure there's real consequences for drunk drivers," Albert said.

Currently, there are no required guidelines for judges to follow in sentencing drunk drivers who kill or injure someone. In some cases, after a few nights in a local jail, drunk driving suspects can keep their license on a restricted basis as their cases are adjudicated in the courts.

But what really shocked and outraged the Seifrieds was that current Michigan insurance laws allow passengers in the same car that struck and killed someone — to file a claim against the insured driver's policy.

Albert explained that his bill would keep alleged drunk drivers off the road while they act as criminal defendants in the court system. It would also require a mandatory 5-year sentence for drivers convicted of causing injury or death.

And passengers in a drunk driving vehicle would be barred from collecting insurance payouts.

"It just blows my mind that somebody who is just as responsible for the death of our daughter, a pain that we carry every single day, in the eyes of the law in Michigan has some right to make an insurance claim even though they put themselves in that situation," Matthew Seifried said.

Senator Albert agrees, and believes that Lucia's Law stands a good chance of passing. "I've had good conversations with (state legislators) on both sides of the aisle," Albert said. The bill will now be heard in committee before it is voted on the full floor. Albert sees "postive momentum" among his Lansing colleagues. Rebecca Seifreid agrees: "If this legislation can save more lives and save more families from the grief that we're burdened with, then we will be immensely proud and full of joy."

Albert also explained that not only are the Seifried's his constituents, but they are also his friends, sharing that his own daughter is named Lucia, and that he attended the funeral of infant Lucia Iris.

The family has created the Lucia Iris Foundation to help families impacted by drunk driving. The website can be found at luciairis.org

Local caterer donates 500 books for library book sale

Thanks to an extremely generous donation by local caterer Dorene Serbenski to the Friends of the Paw Paw District Library, the May 14-16, 2026 book sale at the Library will feature a wonderful selection of over five hundred cookbooks from her professional collection. In addition, this semi-annual event will include the usual large array of gently used books, CDs and DVDs of all genres. All items are available for one dollar or less, and all proceeds from this sale will be used to support the Library.

Many will remember Ms. Serbenski as the proprietor of (first) Desserts Unlimited and (later) Premier Catering of Paw Paw. Building upon the fond memories and valuable lessons learned as a child in her grandmother's kitchen, she began her culinary career in the 1970's as a night shift pots and pans dishwasher for the Upjohn Company. As her talents and work ethic became evident, she was promoted within the Upjohn food service operation until the mid-1980's (when she left the company) at which point she was their head baker. Shortly thereafter she began working from home, developing her Desserts Unlimited business while at the same time raising her family and caring for aging parents. As demand for her creations grew (largely based upon recommendations by past customers) and with the help of family members, she expanded her repertoire and relocated her operation.

The additonal space and increased visibility enabled her to offer a much broader array of menus and services. At its peak, Premier Catering employed up to fifty people, (including many local teenagers and retirees) and operated a fleet of several vehicles to provision multiple (often concurrent) catering jobs each summer weekend. Ms. Serbenski and her team cooked for both private and local corporate and university clients, routinely serving dozens or hundreds at weddings and family reunions and occasionally thousands of people at multi-shift or multi-day events.

Even when she wasn't at work, Ms. Serbenski thought about cooking. As she traveled throughout the United States and Europe, she continued to expand her cookbook collection. She would always read each new acquisition cover to cover, and prided herself in being able to quickly locate whichever recipe she needed amongst her many volumes. Her collection proved to be an invaluable resource that enabled her to offer her customers a regionally- and ethnically-diverse array of menu choices.

After decades of hard work and success, Ms. Serbenski made the bittersweet decision to close her business in 2020. Reflecting on her career she takes great pride and pleasure in memories of the challenges she faced and all of the people she met through her work. Some highlights include not only the fact that a wedding cake she created (see photo above) appeared in The Tiffany Wedding by John Loring, (Design Director Emeritus of Tiffany & Co.), but also that she provided the food for events attended by three different U.S. presidents. After repeated requests, she also somehow found the time to publish her own cookbook, It's Time to Eat! (also pictured above). Still it's hard to imagine a better distillation of Ms. Serbenski's culinary gifts than the following quote from one of her customers: "You gave me the best day of my life."

Ribbon cutting held for Maple Lake pedestrian bridge

A ribbon cutting was held Saturday, May 2, for the new Maple Island Bridge. The new bridge is 200 feet long and was designed by Abonmarche Engineers and built by Riverworks Construction. It replaces a bridge that was built in the 1930s as part of Franklin Roosevelt's Works Progress Administration. The new bridge cost $772,953 to construct, with $300,000 coming from the State of Michigan's Natural Resources Trust Fund, and $353,000 coming from the federal government's American Rescue Plan Act. A new boat dock on the island will be donated by Maple Lake Association. Pier spacing and bridge deck was designed to replicate the 'navigable' space under the original bridge. Paw Paw Village President Roman Plaszczak cut the ceremonial red ribbon while Paw Paw Boy Scouts were the "first official" walkers across the bride, leading those who attended the event to Maple Isle.

Ambassador Brink Tells audience why Ukraine matters

Ambassador Bridget Brink

By James Windell

As the first female United States ambassador to be assigned to a country being ravaged by war and as the ambassador to Ukraine during the Russia invasion, Bridget Brink is an expert on Eastern Europe.

She brought that expertise, achieved over 25 years as a diplomat, to South Haven on Thursday, April 30, 2026 when she held the rapt attention of a standing-room-only crowd at Lake Michigan College.

"American power and values," Ambassador Brink emphasized, "and that US 'soft power,' backed by 'hard power,' enables the U.S. to shape global outcomes: build alliances, address climate change, open markets/create jobs, and end conflicts."

With that core message, Brink framed Ukraine as a test of whether the United States will continue leading the free world rather than abandoning that role. "U.S. leadership abroad is tied directly to American security and prosperity at home," she argued, "rooted in freedom, democracy, and the rule of law."

She told the audience that her personal path into diplomacy and her public service was connected to her family history as her grandparents served in WWII. Growing up in a small Michigan community, she was raised by a single mother. She praised her education in public schools, but said that it was financial aid made college possible.

When she started college, she wanted to be a doctor to help people, but her goals shifted from a pre-med dream after struggling in biology and taking a political science class called "Quest for Justice." Then, as a junior, she had the opportunity to study in London and that "broadened my worldview." Brink was in Europe and watched the Berlin Wall fall on November 9, 1989. "That," she said, "helped set my career direction."

Ambassador Brink's first major assignment in the diplomatic arena was in the Balkans in the 1990s where she covered Kosovo from Belgrade and witnessed war crimes and atrocities first-hand.

She described learning "shoe-leather diplomacy" and coalition-building from Richard Holbrooke, a highly influential American diplomat best known for brokering the 1995 Dayton Peace Accords which ended the Bosnian War. His influence shaped her approach throughout her career.

Brink told the audience that Russia's war with Ukraine began in 2014 with the annexation of Crimea and the occupation of Donbas, a region in eastern Ukraine made up primarily of the Donetsk and Luhansk oblasts and located along the border with Russia. Those events escalated to a full-scale invasion on Feb 24, 2022.

She arrived in Kyiv in late May 2022, when the U.S. had not had a confirmed ambassador for over three years. "The embassy," she said, "had to be rebuilt from near-zero equipment." She went on to relate that there were early security realities. Her team slept at the embassy for months, there were limited protective capabilities before advanced air defense systems arrived, and she and her staff spent extensive time in shelters during air alerts."

However, she pushed to be allowed to travel outside Kyiv to oversee U.S. taxpayer assistance and engage regions affected by war, and, both with and without permission, she often travelled by train. It was also important for her to travel to Odesa, a major seaport on the Black Sea, in order to support efforts to reopen exports.

The ambassador summarized the mission as "win the war and win the future," including confronting corruption and weak institutions alongside supporting military defense. Brink characterized the conflict between Russia and Ukraine as morally clear: "Russia as aggressor, Ukraine as victim." She described large-scale atrocities that included women and children killed, children abducted, and many civilian deaths as well as the displacement of people.

Brink said the Biden administration's approach was "help Ukraine win," but she described a subsequent policy change after Trump's election toward forcing Ukraine into a "bad deal," citing a February 2025 Oval Office meeting with Zelenskyy. She said that US military aid and intelligence sharing were halted, including air defense munitions, and she concluded she could not carry out the policy and decided to resign.

She recounted that on April 4, 2025 that there was a cluster-munition strike on a playground in Kryvyi Rih that killed 18 people (mostly children) as a pivotal moment around the timing of her resignation.

She concluded her remarks by saying that supporting Ukraine is both morally right and in our country's national interest. The reason why it is in our interest to defend Ukraine is that helps to deter wider Russian imperial ambitions, it protects NATO and Europe, a key security and economic partner, and it prevents sending the wrong signals – signals that embolden other aggressors.

In a brief question and answer period, Brink was asked how long peace negotiations take. Her response, which initially sounded humorous, was that peace negotiations "take forever" and require persistence. Another question from the audience was related to how we stop Putin. She replied that just like on the playground you have to stand up to a bully.

The final question of the evening was about her future. She responded to that by saying that she still wants to make an impact and so she is "running for Congress in Michigan's 7th Congressional District." That answer was met with applause.

How bright lights are endangering starry nights

Dr. Anne Blackwell

Light pollution, or the excessive use of artificial lighting at night, is a problem because it disrupts peoples' sleep, animal migrations, and the grand view of the twinkling stars above. Dr. Anne Blackwell, an astronomer at the University of Michigan, will discuss the issue of worsening light pollution and efforts to combat it at the South Haven Speakers Series program Thursday, May 14 at 7 p.m., at the Lake Michigan College—South Haven campus.

Research shows light pollution is costly, disturbing wildlife, harming human health, and blocking our view of the universe. A study in Science magazine showed that the number of visible stars is decreasing by 7% to 10% a year. A child born where 250 stars are visible today might only see about 100 by the time he or she is 18.

"My worry is how disconnected we are becoming from nature and our ancestral knowledge," said Blackwell, co-coordinator and longtime member of Michigan Dark Skies, a group of astronomers, bird watchers, and environmentalists advocating for more natural, less-intrusive lighting and for dark sky parks. Blackwell has helped to develop and present educational programs for the public, ranging from school students to senior citizens.

In a dark-sky preserve movement, communities in Michigan and nationally are limiting the amount of light that homes and businesses can disperse and requiring special low-wattage exterior lamps and sconces that direct light downward. The city of Pittsburgh, for instance, has begun dimming its streetlights, projecting its annual energy bills will drop nearly $1 million.

"Overbright lights are depriving us of the stellar spectacle that has inspired humanity for ages," said Michael McCarthy, an author and Speakers Series board member. "During the day, South Haven offers wonderful views of the lake and sunset–is it possible we could provide an after-dark experience of a breathtaking, brilliant sky?"

The event begins with refreshments at 6:30 p.m., followed by the presentation at 7 p.m.

South Haven City Committee of the Whole discusses utility capacity

By James Windell

The first piece of new business to come up before the South Haven City Council Committee of the Whole when they met on Monday, May 4, 2026 was whether the City's utilities were at or near capacity.

City Manager Kate Hosier led off the discussion by saying her goal was to address recurring comments and questions regarding "limited capacity." She turned it over to Dana Burd, Director of Public Works, who framed his presentation in three parts: water, wastewater, and the City's municipal electric utility.

Right off the bat, Burd stated that there are no immediate drinking water system capacity concerns. "The system is considered well managed, with capital improvements planned and funded on appropriate timelines," Burd said.

Despite serving about 5,900 water customers with the peak seasonal population estimated to be around 70,000 during summer and holiday weekends, Burd said he has no concerns about the ability of the system to meet the needs of all customers.

Burd told the City Council that water capacity is considered across multiple components, not just plant output. It also involves treatment plant chemical and disinfection capacity, distribution hydraulics, fire flow scenarios, pipe sizing, booster pumps, and elevated storage tank operations.

However, Burd stated the near-term focus is on replacing aging infrastructure that breaks frequently and causes outages, plus required service line replacements and other state-driven regulatory requirements.

As he addressed the wastewater (sewer) capacity, Burd emphasized that wastewater capacity is more nuanced than water because it's an "open" system and affected by what enters the network as well as by rain, snowmelt inflow and infiltration.

As he described the sewer system, he said that the City had approximately 30 pump with pipe sizes ranging down to 6 to 12 inches in many areas, but with some of those pipes nearly 100 years old. As he said about the water supply, though, Burd stated there was no "immediate wastewater capacity concern for growth and development."

Burd went on to say that planned wastewater improvements include additional clarifiers, aeration expansion, and decisions on future biosolids management.

He offered homeowner guidance by saying that homeowners should have routine lateral inspection and cleaning. In addition, residents should consider backflow prevention and be cautious finishing basements below system elevation. Plugs, he said, are recommended for floor drains in older homes where footing tiles and floor drains may be tied together.

Finally, in addressing electric utility capacity, Burd stated there are no immediate electric capacity concerns. The electric planning focus, he added, is on safety and reliability and cost management rather than direct public health discharge and consumption issues. He said that purchased power costs are heavily influenced by system peaks and by reducing peak demand customer costs can be materially reduced.

Burd concluded his remarks telling the Council that the utility currently does not generate power, but is exploring options to offset peak demand. Some of the options he mentioned include small natural-gas generation (not a full-scale plant), battery storage, and solar power.

District Library Board meeting draws many Lawrence Township residents asking for update to branch library contract

DECATUR - Approximately 75 people attended the Tuesday, April 28, Van Buren District Library Board meeting at Webster Memorial Library, Decatur.

The meeting again saw a large representation of Lawrence Township residents seeking answers from the Library Board to update a decades-old contract signed by the board and the seven branch libraries.

Lawrence Township Clerk Tracie Rindfield was one of those in attendance at the meeting speaking as a taxpayer. She said, "As a taxpayer in this community, I want to speak plainly.

"You came to us - not once, not twice, but three separate times - asking for millages to fund the Van Buren District Library. And each time, the taxpayers showed up and approved of those millages in good faith. We believed in the value of our library system, and we trusted that partnership would mean something.

"But now we are sitting here having a conversation about whether the Lawrence branch could be shut down.

"That should concern every single taxpayer," said Rindfield.

She continued, "Because from our perspective, we have upheld our end of the agreement. We continue to pay into this system, year after year, without fail. Yet now we are told that maintaining a physical presence in our community is optional.

"That doesn't feel like partnership. That feels like a shift in expectations after the fact.

"Good faith goes both ways. And when taxpayers step up repeatedly to support an organization, they expect stability, commitment, and a shared responsibility to the communities that made that support possible," said Rindfield.

She concluded, "Decisions made here - especially ones that impact access to a local library - will not be forgotten. Because the next time a library millage comes before the voters, people will remember how this moment was handled.

"This isn't just about a building. It's about trust," said Rindfield.

Another Lawrence Township resident, Noel J. McCaw, spoke before the VBDL Board of Trustees and Library Director, Dan Hutchins.

"I would like to begin by acknowledging your position regarding the addendum negotiations with township boards. I recognize that this process presents significant challenges as you work to safeguard the district's long-term interests, ensure consistent application across branches, and prevent scenarios where a single exception leads to numerous separate agreements. Your concerns in this matter are entirely understandable. I also want to thank you for the thoughtful and prudent way you manage taxpayer dollars that help keep the VBDL system running. However, many of us taxpayers are increasingly concerned with how the recent addendum negotiations have unfolded. Township residents are the same taxpayers who also support and fund VBDL, and we want the same outcome: local libraries that are open and accessible, providing valuable resources and opportunities to all residents.

"The VBDL Board of Trustees' current lack of engagement is difficult to reconcile with its stated mission and goals to provide "...equitable access to a world of resources, reading and lifelong learning," act as "...an innovative gateway to information, culture and enrichment," and "maintain communication with local communities to strengthen relationships, resulting in easier access for future support."

She continued, "From Lawrence Township's point of view, the outstanding issues are limited in scope but remain significant. The first is the use of "may" versus "shall" in the addendum as it pertains to funding disbursement for building maintenance, repairs, and improvements. The Township is not asking for increased funding or special treatment; they are asking for dependable commitments that allow them to budget responsibly for facilities that directly support library access. Predictable funding is a foundational governance principle, one the VBDL Board itself relies on through stable millage revenue to plan staffing, services, and operations. Discretionary language makes responsible long-term planning difficult for small communities with limited financial flexibility."

McCaw said, "The second issue is the absence of a defined end date or renewal term in the proposed addendum. An agreement that continues indefinitely, with the only path to renegotiation being a 180-day cancellation clause, places townships in a position where confrontation is required simply to revisit terms. That approach does not reflect a healthy or sustainable partnership.

"Townships are instead asking for a time-limited agreement with a set renewal point to support clear governance, responsible budgeting, and maintain positive relationships between the VBDL Board of Trustees and township boards.

"If agreements cannot be reached, one or more township branch libraries in Van Buren County will close. While it is often suggested that residents could simply travel to a neighboring branch, that assumption overlooks the reality of this county. Van Buren County is overwhelmingly rural, with limited public transportation and a heavy reliance on personal vehicles. For residents with dependable transportation options, a closure may be an inconvenience. For others, it effectively eliminates access altogether."

McCaw continued, "Closing township branches would disproportionately burden residents who already face barriers to access and would result in uneven availability of core library services across the county. This creates a clear disparity in outcomes, as the residents most impacted by branch closures are the same individuals the library's mission commits to serving equitably. When access to resources depends on the ability to drive farther or navigate transportation limitations, access is no longer equitable, it becomes conditional. Such an outcome conflicts directly with VBDL's stated mission to provide equitable access to reading and learning opportunities.

"In closing, my request is simple: please return to the table and work respectfully and collaboratively towards a resolution with each township. VBDL's mission is to provide "equitable access to a world of resources, reading, and lifelong learning," and that commitment must guide decisions made here. Upholding that promise requires more than words on a website; it requires choices, behaviors, and actions. If negotiations are stalled for reasons beyond consistency, those reasons should be stated plainly so the public understands what is blocking progress. Transparency and accountability are not optional; they are essential to restoring trust and working together in good faith. I am asking you to reengage with our township boards to protect and sustain our libraries."

Bonita Suiter, of Lawrence, spoke before the board saying, "The Lawrence Library is the first place I went when I moved here, even though I was new to the area. I was welcomed there and my relationship with the library has only grown."

She then directed her comments to the board, saying, "You have been appointed by members of your communities to represent the taxpayers and to ensure that each community in the district has a library.

"You each have a responsibility to us to facilitate a dialogue between the board and each township. We pay taxes to ensure that we have a library in the Lawrence community and if it closes, you still get our money. At this point, our tax dollars are going to pay lawyers because people aren't building relationships."

She continued, "We need people on this library board who understand the importance of building strong relationships with each township, and who are capable and willing to doing that. I urge you to please meet with and dialogue with the townships who have asked to meet with you. I ask you to really hear what they are saying about their concerns and work with them rather than against them to find a solution. That is what we as taxpayers expect."

She continued, "The fact that we are at the point where more than one township is is threatening to close their library, that tells me that the library board needs to do more to support all of the communities in our library system. I hope you understand how upsetting the threatened closing of the Lawrene branch has been for the people of Lawrence, Also, the general public does not understand the dynamics of the township owning the building so, if the library closes, many will not likely place the fault on the Township."

Suiter praised the efforts of retired Lawrence Branch Librarian Denise Campagna, now the Lawrence Township representative on the Library Board.

"I cannot thank Denise Campagna enough for her passion for finding a solution to a problem that never should have gotten to this point and for encouraging discussions between the Library Board and the townships. I have not heard that other members of the of this Board have joined her in those meetings."

She concluded, "If the rest of you are not also willing to do that work, or do not feel you have the time to do that work, I urge you to consider whether being on the board is making the best use of your personal skills, abilities, and time."

we care about your community.
because it's our community too.

Antwerp Township Supervisor seeks "meaningful negotiations" with VB District Library Board

Antwerp Township Supervisor Daniel Ruzick, who attended the April 28 Van Buren District Library board meeting, released the following statement shortly after the meeting. It read:

"At the April 28 meeting of the Van Buren District Library Board, the Library Board continued to pursue an addendum approach, including a proposal offering $7,500 and $25,000 in back payment. While we appreciate the effort, this proposal does not address the core issue, nor does it account for the immediate need to replace critical building components, including the roof and windows, with estimated costs of $50,733 for the roof and $95,852 for the windows.

"Antwerp Township's position remains consistent: after multiple voter-approved millages supporting the growth and expansion of library services, there must also be a fair and sustainable commitment to maintaining the facility that houses those services.

"The Township is not seeking to remove the library. We value its presence and remain committed to ensuring continued service for our residents. However, we are seeking a new, standalone agreement that includes a dedicated capital funding structure to ensure the long-term sustainability of the Antwerp Township library building, rather than placing 100 percent of the financial responsibility on the Township.

"With the June 14 deadline approaching, we are urging the Library Board to move beyond addendum proposals and engage in meaningful negotiations. We have also requested the involvement of a neutral third-party mediator to help both parties reach a fair and timely resolution,"

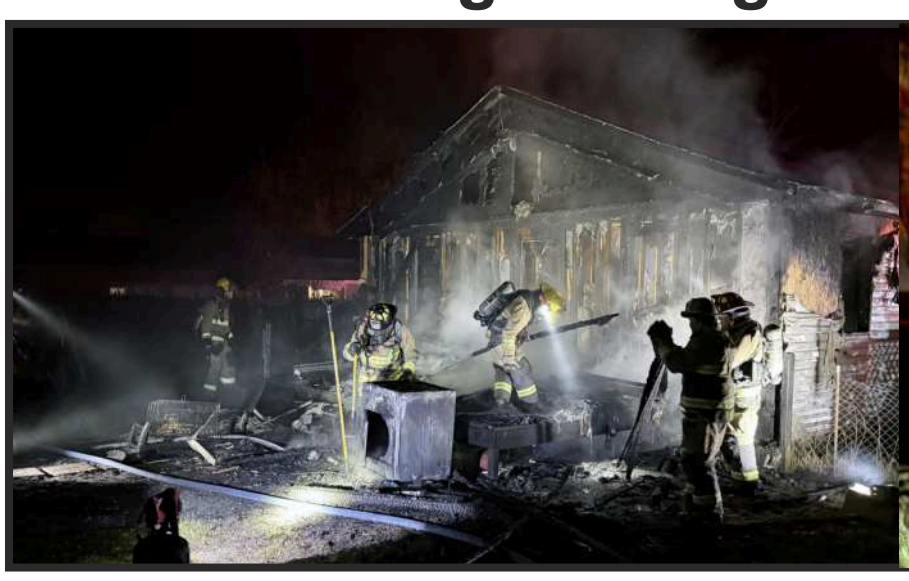
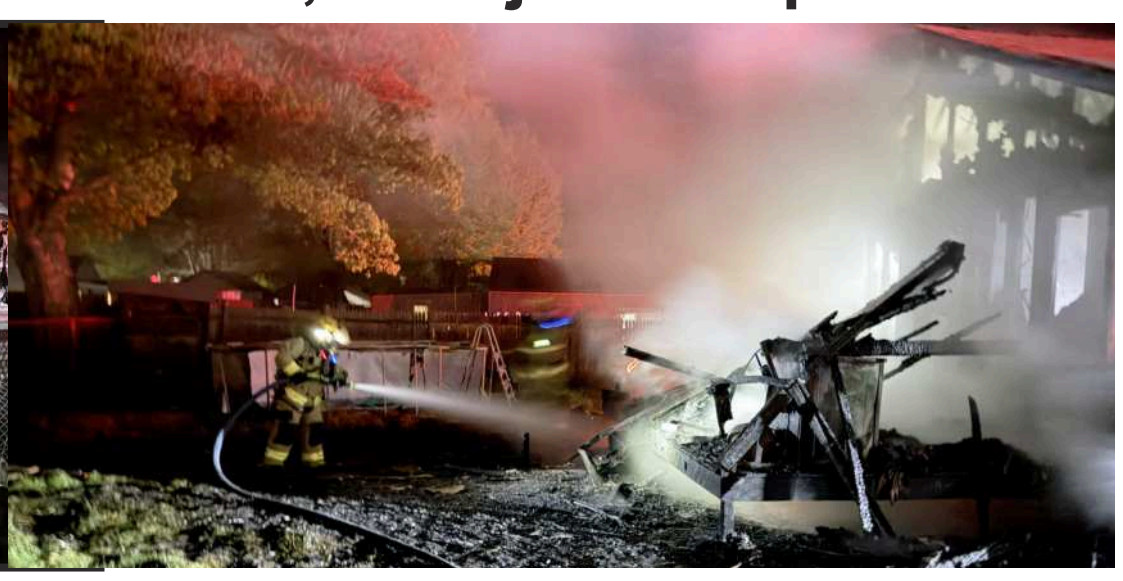
Fire damages Bangor residence, no injuries reported





Fire Sunday night extensively damaged a residence in the city of Bangor (Van Buren County).

Firefighters from Bangor Community Fire Department were dispatched at 10:20 p.m. to a structure fire in the 200 block of Main Street.

Mutual aid assistance was requested from South Haven Area Emergency Services (SHAES) and Columbia Township Fire Department.

The rear of the residence was fully engulfed in flames upon arrival. Flames had spread to the interior of the home.

The residents safely evacuated from the residence.

The fire appeared to have initiated on a rear porch. A cause is under investigation.

No injuries were reported. Van Buren Emergency Medical Services and Indiana Michigan Power also responded.

Draft of the 2026-2027 budget given to SHAWSA

By James Windell

The draft budget for Fiscal Year 2026/2027 was presented to the South Haven Area Water Sewer Authority (SHAWSA) at its regular meeting on Tuesday, April 28, 2026.Reviewing the details of the budget were Rosemary Zink, SHAWSA finance director, and Public Works Director Dana Burd.Burd indicated that the budget presented is in line with the Authority's most recent Cost-of-Service Study and multi-year rate plan. SHAWSA has received a historic amount of grant funding totaling $20 million in recent years to support $42 million in ongoing water and wastewater investment. Zink and Burd presented the following revenue and expenditure report:Water Fund Total Revenue: $ 7,236,545 Water Fund Total Expenditures: $ 18,544,162 Sewer Fund Total Revenue $ 6,126,446 Sewer Fund Total Expenditures $ 6,915,783Old Authority Total Revenue: $ 1,516,845

Old Authority Total Expenditures $ 806,187

Total of all Revenue: $ 14,879,836

Total of all Expenditures: $ 26,266,132

Although the expenditures exceed revenues for FY 2026-27 for Water and Sewer Funds, Zink said that this is not cause for concern. Zink and Burd explained that the expenses shown for capital outlay are due to large ongoing construction projects. These projects include such items as the new elevated tank and booster station construction, the standpipe and booster station demolition, and the lead service line replacements. They stated that these will be capitalized and moved to work-in-progress at the end of the year and then depreciated over the life of the asset.

In discussing the draft budget, a SHAWSA Board member raised a concern about having a more deliberate, structured approach to finding cost savings and efficiencies. Burd responded by saying that primary spending drivers are regulatory compliance mandates, for instance, "lead lines, consent order requirements, and standpipe work." He added that there is a strong focus on securing grant funding to reduce the customer cost burden.

The SHAWSA board members will take the proposed budget to each of their respective boards and commissions for comments over the next 30 days. The budget is typically adopted by SHAWSA at the June meeting along with any necessary amendments to the current FY 2025-26 budget.

In other news from SHAWSA, Covert Township Supervisor Daywi Cook attended the meeting and indicated her interest in having Covert Township join SHAWSA.

It was noted that prior discussions included whether Covert would join as water-only (retail water customer) versus also joining as a sewer customer. The understanding on the SHAWSA Board was that the intergovernmental contract would need an amendment to allow new members. However, board members were open to putting the topic back on a future agenda.

South Haven Area Emergency Services celebrates 30th Year

The SHAES Authority, consisting of the city of South Haven and townships of Casco, Geneva and South Haven, was founded in 1996.

"SHAES has blossomed into an organization that has surpassed anyone's expectations," said Executive Director Brandon Hinz. "Fire-based Advanced Life Support transport such as we provide is an oddity in Michigan, an oddity in the nation. It's an oddity because it's hard. It's difficult to manage, it's difficult to operate. It takes a village to provide this type of service."

SHAES provides its service using a combination of career and paid-on-call staff, another rarity according to Hinz. "Most fire departments that provide transport EMS are much larger than SHAES," Hinz explained. He noted that in Michigan, out of 1,001 fire departments only 23 provide ALS transport.

The SHAES staff consists of 22 career and 29 paid-on-call members. A recently created cadet program numbers five members. The department operates from three stations. In 2025 the department responded to a record 2,920 alarms, 2,021 medical and 899 fire calls.

A highlight of the banquet was the recognition of members for service and accomplishments.

Firefighter/paramedic Cody Sedlak, a member of the department for 10 years, is the Firefighter of the Year. He served as a paid-on-call member for four years before joining the career ranks. The honor of Firefighter of the Year is determined by members of the department.

"Cody told me once that it was always his dream to become a SHAES firefighter/paramedic," said Hinz. "His ownership of this organization is almost extreme. He is our "go to" person when a task needs to be completed." An example was the way Sedlak took the lead in outfitting the three new grass fire rigs acquired by the department in recent months.

The SHAES Leadership Award was presented to firefighter/paramedic Paul Pant. A relatively new member of the career staff, in only 2.5 years Pant has taken the lead in securing outside financial support for the department. He has also been in the forefront of creating an awareness within the department of the need to serve members' mental health needs.

"Thanks to Paul we're focusing on breaking a stigma surrounding mental health among public servants," said Hinz. "In cooperation with the South Haven Police Department, a support program has been created to address the mental health needs of our members."

"An average person experiences three to four traumatic events in their lifetime," observed Hinz.

"Our staff experiences an average of two per month. This can take a toll over the course of a career."

A formal swearing-in ceremony welcomed nine new members – Luke Thompson FF, Sam Rose FF, Ayden Quinn FF, Josh Klein FF/EMT-B, Corey Heuer FF/EMT-B, Jacon Infante FF/EMT-B, Lily McCorry FF/EMT-B, Brock Lovell FF/EMT-B and Jacob Mulder FF/EMT-B.

Years of Service pins were presented to several members – Allan Overhiser (40 years), Tom Renner (35 years), Ross Stein and Brad Filbrandt (30 years) and Cody Sedlak (10 years).

Three members received promotions during the past year – Captain Brian Montgomery, Lieutenants Phillip Quinn and Rex Haner.

A fun highlight of the banquet was the formal swearing-in ceremony of the cadets – Scott Ritchie, Alyssa Ockerman, Nick Rainey, Brenden Cramer and Payton Haner. The ceremony was held at the very beginning because several cadets needed to leave in order to attend their high school prom.

Paw Paw Schools' innovation showcase spotlights SME Prime Partnership and new STEAM Lab debut

On Friday, May 1, Paw Paw Public Schools (PPPS) served as host to an Innovation Showcase in the newly renovated STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math) Wing at Paw Paw High School (PPHS). Local manufacturers were invited to learn about the district's partnership with the SME Education Foundation and how it is preparing students for high-demand careers. Through the SME PRIME program, the collaboration provides industry-aligned manufacturing and engineering opportunities, including equipment, curriculum, teacher training, scholarships, and program support. Attendees toured the new STEAM lab, where students and staff demonstrated equipment. According to the National Association of Manufacturers, the U.S. is projected to face a shortage of 1.9 million manufacturing workers by 2033. PPHS has completed a full renovation of its STEAM Lab, featuring new equipment, flexible furniture, and a design that promotes innovation and collaboration. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"1970 photo from Paw Paw found on Scottish beach"

Dear Editor::

Lyle Howard Leonard and Mabel Frances Warren (Leonard) were my paternal grandparents. His friends knew him as "Howard" or "LH", so seeing him called "Lyle" on the back of this photo is a little unusual. The article is largely right about where he lived, except he was born in Rudyard, MI (Chippewa County). The Soo figured more prominently for him at different points in his life and is likely what he would have thought of as "home". The lady on the left in the blue dress is my grandma, and that's definitely their old house. I don't recognize the three people on the right, nor do my parents or aunt.

Howard and Mabel each had a parent who was born in Canada (King, ON and Bruce, ON). In the generations before that, most of their ancestors were from Scotland, and some were from England. Howard's mom was a Gordon, and said one of her ancestors was born in Gordon Castle (it's not clear to me if this would have been in 1806, 1777, or earlier).

How this photo made it to Scotland is a complete mystery to us. My dad is speculating the three people on the right may have been visiting relatives from Canada, but we really don't know.

Oshtemo residents oppose data centers (BESS)

Dear Editor:

Another well written article Mike. My only request is to rewrite the article and swap out the words "data centers" for "Battery Energy Storage System (BESS)", then republish the "new" article.

The Oshtemo board quietly worked on bringing a BESS to the edge of the county bordering Van Buren county in a rural and agricultural area. The neighborhood was furious when they finally found out. The township residents are now rallying to recall the board now, for all the reasons in your article.

Thank you,

Dan Lundgren

VIEWPOINT

RIP Spirit, you were mocked by many, but this frequent traveler loved you

MIKE'S MUSINGS

MIKE WILCOX ■ PUBLISHER ■

The news that Spirit Airlines has shut down operations after more than three decades in the sky feels like the end of an era—and not just for bargain travelers.

For this frequent Spirit traveler, the news was devastating. I woke up to it early Saturday morning. In only a few hours I was to fly on Spirit from Detroit to Orlando. I had made this same monthly trip for over 25 years, probably 250 flights but who is counting. Spirit was my go-to airline. My favorite.

I couldn't make it one last time because Spirit executives decided to cancel all flights and halt business operations at midnight. Fortunately for me I was able to rebook on Delta. My heart goes out to those travelers that weren't as lucky as I. Finding alternative flights can be stressful and at the very least throw off arrival times.

For years, Spirit was the airline people loved to complain about… right before they booked it anyway. It wasn't glamorous. It wasn't comfortable. But it made flying possible for millions who otherwise couldn't afford it. That matters more than we often admit.

On the other hand, my experience with Spirit was phenomenal. I never experienced a cancelled flight and 80% of the time, flights were on time. That's pretty darn good for an airline that many love to bash.

This wasn't a collapse out of nowhere. Spirit had been walking a financial tightrope for years—bankruptcies, failed merger attempts, and razor-thin margins. When fuel prices surged and a last-minute rescue deal fell apart, the math finally stopped working.

Still, numbers don't capture what's really lost here.

Spirit forced the entire airline industry to behave. When it entered a market, fares dropped—sometimes significantly—because competitors had to respond.

Now that pressure is gone. Travelers, especially families and budget-conscious flyers, will feel it first and hardest.

And then there are the people. Roughly 17,000 employees suddenly found themselves out of work, many learning the news overnight.

Pilots, flight attendants, mechanics—these aren't abstract numbers. They're livelihoods, communities, and careers built around an airline that simply vanished.

Many of those people lived in Michigan, where Spirit was a hub. Many of you aren't aware but Spirit got it start at Detroit Metro Airport 32 years ago. As it grew it re-located to Fort Lauderdale, but for many of us, we remembered and were loyal to its Detroit roots.

It's easy to debate who's to blame, fuel prices, government policy, blocked mergers, or a business model that pushed costs as low as possible. The truth is probably all of the above. But focusing only on blame misses the bigger point.

Spirit Airlines was messy, frustrating, and often mocked—but it democratized air travel.

Its bright yellow planes represented something bigger: the idea that flying shouldn't be a luxury reserved for a few. With its disappearance, we may be heading back toward a system where affordability takes a back seat to comfort and consolidation.

And that's why, even if you never loved flying Spirit, it's still worth saying:

It's a shame to see it go.

Sheriff's Report- Break-in call leads to bench warrant arrest

Van Buren County Sheriff's Office Uniform Response handled a break-in call in Geneva Township. Upon investigation, it wasn't a break-in, but a civil complaint. One of the individuals involved had a bench warrant for their arrest, so they were lodged on it," said Van Buren County Sheriff Daniel Abbott.

Uniform Response handled a larceny from outside a vacant residence in Hamilton Township. "Anyone with any information is asked to call our office," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled a call in the Village of Mattawan in which two children in diapers were in the roadway. Deputies searched the area and were able to figure out where they belonged. The children were returned to the parents, and the case is being reviewed by CPS.

Uniform Response handed an assault call in Geneva Township. The assault turned out to be unfounded, however, one of the individuals on scene had a bench warrant for their arrest. The individual was arrested on the warrant. Methamphetamine was found during the arrest, and the charges are now being submitted on that as well.

"Our office participated in the DEA Takeback event this past weekend. Just a reminder, we have numerous red med boxes located throughout the county so citizens can dispose of their medications every week. The locations are posted on our website and are all over the county," said Sheriff Abbott.

"Friday, May 8, at 7 p.m. is our annual Detroit Legends versus Van Buren County FOP All-Stars Basketball Game. It's being held once again at the Paw Paw Middle School Gym. If you've never been, you are missing out on a good time. The Legends take pictures and do autographs at halftime and consistently engage with the crowd, especially the kids. For tickets, call 1-800-445-2143 or go to: fop136.publicsafetytypsa.com. Hope to see you there." said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled an assault call in Decatur Township. "The investigation found that a juvenile assaulted his mother and it's an ongoing issue with this happening," said Sheriff Abbott. The juvenile was taken and lodged at a juvenile detention center for domestic assault.

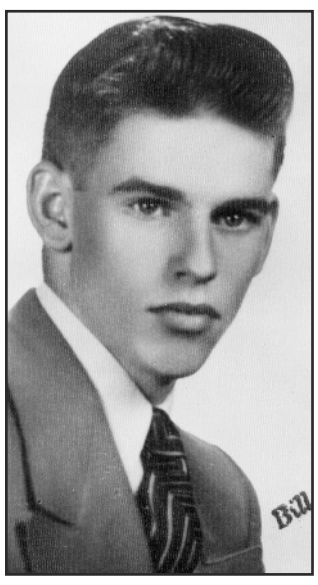
Uniform Response handled a trespassing call in Antwerp Township. A homeless individual was sleeping in a van on private property, so they were advised to leave and not come back as the property owners did not want them there. The individual left and advised they wouldn't return.

"There's a new scam going around that is going to cell phones or emails about you being a perfect candidate for a job. They want you to click on a link so an expert resume builder can help you update it. As always, once you do, they scam you with the information they just obtained. This scam is coming from a Gmail address," said Sheriff Abbott.

"We have received calls throughout the year of people stopping at apple orchards, pear orchards, etc. to pick fruit without getting permission from the farmer. This past week, different individuals have been stealing asparagus from different fields doing just that. Keep in mind, that is a larceny and illegal trespassing if the farmer chooses to press charges if you get caught. If you are one of those individuals that doesn't think it's a big deal taking from a farmer's livelihood as it's a big field or orchard and get caught, you'll have no one to blame but yourself when you get charged and have a criminal record moving forward. We received information this past week about individuals' doing just that at an asparagus field and the suspect's fleeing every time before the farmer could get to them," said Sheriff Abbott.

OBITUARIES

William (Bill) Sousley



William (Bill) Sousley passed peacefully at his home in Lawrence, MI on Wednesday, April 22, 2026, surrounded by his family. Bill was born on September 27, 1932, to Chester Eugene and Mable Sousley. He was the eldest of 7 siblings. He is survived by his children, Kim Thompson and Kelly (Carrie) Sousley, grandchildren Amanda (Dave) Thomas, Amy (Michael) Ohlert, Matthew Thompson and Audrey Gross, and great grandchildren Korben, Jade, Evie, Tamarra and Delaney. He was preceded in death by his parents, sisters Georgia, Gladys and Gari and brother Chris. His sisters Gertrude and Gayle also survive to tell the stories of growing up.

Bill served his country proudly in the Korean War and was recently awarded a 50-year commemoration with the American Legion Post 174. He took pride that a Sousley was one of the Iwo Jima flag raisers. He was proud to have been an Honor Flight recipient and cherished his time in Washington DC with his comrades Dick Kroeg and Chuck Moden.

An avid sports enthusiast and hunter provided him with many years of enjoyment and stories too numerous to tell. He was a devoted supporter of boys and girls youth sports and taking care of the ball fields. He was a Little League umpire, a softball coach, a Boy Scout commissioner, a runner and hiker. He shared a hunting cabin 'up north' with his dear friends, Charlie Brown, Dick Kroeg and frequent hunting buddies. The tales Camp Bologna could tell!

He was a hard man for a father but mellowed to become a loving and patient grandpa…the title he enjoyed the most. He loved his family fiercely and did not suffer fools lightly. You knew what he thought of you. He loved to tease and loved it more when it was dished back…preferably with a sassy attitude.

In his later years, he shared many of them with his dear companion, Reva Carrington, prior to her passing. The last five years were devoted to his lion-hearted tiny dog, Peaches, a dog he swore was smarter than most people!

Family and friends will gather to share the memories of Bill on Saturday, May 16, at the Lawrence United Methodist Church, 122 S. Exchange St., Lawrence. Visitation will be from 10 a.m. to noon. A memorial service will take place at noon, followed by a military honors funeral at the Veteran's Hill Cemetery, Lawrence. A luncheon will be held at the American Legion Post 174.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions to the American Legion Post 174 will be welcomed.

(Sikkenga) Imus, Tom grew up working the family dairy farm alongside his parents and siblings. A gifted mechanic, Tom continued operation of the family shop after his father's passing.

A proud lifetime member of the North American Hunting Club, Tom was an avid hunter, fisherman, and gardener who took as much pride in his perfectly mowed lawn as he did in his flower and vegetable beds. Each season he grew beautiful Zinnias for Linda, always keeping fresh bouquets throughout the house. He loved the thrill of a good gamble, and his record casino run clocked in at 26 straight hours.

Tom was preceded in death by his beloved partner of 33 years, Linda M. Robbins; his parents, Robert A. and Jean E. (Sikkenga) Imus; his brothers Clark Imus and Bill Imus; and his sisters Judith Imus and Martha (Imus) Forrest.

Michigan 39th House District candidates speak in Paw Paw

PAW PAW - Candidates running for the Michigan 39th District House seat addressed voters May 2 at a forum in Paw Paw, explaining why they believe they are the right choice for the position.

The seat is currently held by Rep. Pauline Wendzel.

Indivisible Paw Paw, a non-partisan organization based in Van Buren County, invited Democratic candidates Kerry Tapper and Zachary Shinabarger to the question-and-answer session. After the Q &A, Green Party candidate Jared Polonowski addressed the group of 30 attendees at the Paw Paw District Library. Rep. Wendzel did not respond to requests to attend the forum.

Forum topics included "Project Lighthouse," a bill recently introduced in the House by Rep. Wendzel that aims to repeal the green initiatives passed in the 20234-2024 Michigan legislative session; data centers and AI; housing and affordability; healthcare; and education. Several audience members also asked questions concerning the 39th District.

In response to questions on Project Lighthouse and green energy, Tapper and Shinabarger expressed a need to lower energy costs.

While Tapper cited a number of factors which play into Michigan's rising energy costs, she said construction of new energy projects will take time to formulate into production facilities. Both agreed that local governmental entities should be involved with planning when it comes to alternative energy sources.

Shinabarger pointed out that neither he nor Tapper have taken campaign donations from big energy companies, while opponent Rep. Wendzel has accepted donations from Michigan's two largest energy producers, DTE and Consumers Energy.

Communities across Michigan have opposed data centers, citing energy use by the centers and increasing energy costs to consumers. Currently, Michigan is considering a moratorium on the development of data centers until April 2027, giving local and state entities time to research the subject and to implement planning guidelines.

When asked if she supports the moratorium, Tapper said she supports the need to protect Michigan's water resources and believes local government should have a part in the decision process when data centers build within their community.

Supportive of the moratorium, Shinabarger said data centers have the potential to contaminate the water supply and produce noise pollution. In addition, he said data centers employ a small number of people when built.

The displacement of workers was also a concern for both candidates in regard to AI.

"I'm concerned how it will impact our kids," said Tapper. "I'm also concerned about the future of jobs and replacing those workers."

Shinabarger called the reliance on AI a danger to children because it can cause "cognitive off-loading."

"AI is affecting the way we think," Shinabarger said.

Michigan is facing a critical housing shortage, particularly affecting low- and middle-income families. When asked how they would address the housing shortage in Southwest Michigan, the two candidates agreed that more affordable housing is needed.

Zachary Shinabarger & Kerry Tapper May 2 Event

"I'm disheartened by homelessness numbers of low-income families and vets," Tapper said, citing housing grants that have been blocked by local entities. She supports medium density housing which includes a combination of single-family homes, apartments, and duplex housing.

Shinabarger stated that 12 percent of Van Buren County residents are homeless or at severe risk of homelessness.

"And many of these people have jobs," he added. "There are a lot of empty houses that we could place a vacancy tax on," adding he supports not-for-profit housing developments.

When asked about House Bill 4407, MiCare, which proposes a universal, single-payer healthcare system for Michigan residents, both Shinabarger and Tapper said they support this idea.

"Everyone should be able to go to a doctor without pulling out their wallet," Shinabarger said.

Tapper said she agrees we should be looking at other countries that have managed to develop universal healthcare and work together to find a solution for a more equitable system.

On the topic of education, Tapper said, if elected, she would work to have school funding changed, adding "I believe we can do better."

Shinabarger said local school funding priorities need to focus on education and not so much on building impressive facilities.

Green Party candidate Jared Polonowki introduced himself by stating this is the third time he has sought a political office, having run in 2022 and 2024. He has a bachelor's degree in education and lives in Otsego Township, Allegan County, which is part of the 39th District.

Indivisible Paw Paw's next candidate forum will be at Lucky Wolf at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 6.

The group has invited Democratic and Republican candidates representing Michigan's 20th Senate seat.

National Travel and Tourism Week celebrated in South Haven

By James Windel

May is National Travel and Tourism Week so what better place to hold a statewide press conference celebrating the week than at the Michigan Maritime Museum in South Haven?

Members of the media were invited to join Pure Michigan, the Tourism Industry Coalition of Michigan (TICOM), and regional tourism leaders from across the state for the press conference on May 4, 2026.

Dan McCole, President of TICOM, opened the conference by welcoming attendees in South Haven to recognize National Travel and Tourism Week as the industry heads into the summer season.

"Tourism's importance is not merely symbolic," McCole told the audience in the Museum's conference room, "it impacts economies, communities, employment, and quality of life."

McCole reported that $1.4 trillion was spent in direct U.S. travel and tourism last year, and that Michigan's economic impact came in at around $55 billion. He said that travel is important because it strengthens relationships, exposes people to new ideas, supports personal growth, and improves quality of life.

McCole played a recorded video message from Lt. Governor of Michigan Garlin Gilchrist, who congratulated the industry on National Travel and Tourism Week and 20 years of the Pure Michigan campaign. Gilchrist thanked tourism partners for "telling Michigan's story," bringing visitors from across the country, and helping residents see their own state with new eyes.

Following Gilchrist, Kelly Wolgamott, Vice President of Pure Michigan, reiterated tourism's statewide impact. She pointed out that last year 131 million visitors generated $54.8 billion in total economic impact and supported 350, 000 state and local jobs. Wolgamott noted that the Pure Michigan campaign over the past 20 years has been highly successful. She said that travelers exposed to Pure Michigan ads "do more and stay longer" than those not exposed to the ad. Travelers who have seen the ads, she said, spend on average about $1,800 and visitors generated $171 million in state tax revenue.

Wolgamott concluded her remarks by introducing a new spring campaign launch called "For Every Season of You," which focuses on authentic four-season storytelling that is relatable, nostalgic, emotional, and rooted in warmth and humanity.

"Pure Michigan's influence extends beyond tourism," she said. "It drives local economies, supports jobs, inspires state pride, and sometimes contributes to relocation or business investment."

Jen Sistrunk, the Executive Director of Visit South Haven, also welcomed attendees and shared a short destination video highlighting South Haven's "beach town" identity. She told the audience that South Haven is home to 10 public-access beaches and that it is "An historic resort town where visitors have been coming for over a century."

Sistrunk added that with 1.6 million visitors annually tourism is South Haven's primary economic driver. Tourism in South Haven supports more than 1,600 jobs and generates more than $191 million in annual visitor spending. Sistrunk closed by emphasizing balancing the visitor economy and resident quality of life. "If you build a place where people want to visit, you build a place where people want to live," she said.

Bailey Sisoy-Moore, Executive Director of the Michigan Maritime Museum, was the final speaker and she introduced the museum for those in the audience who were not familiar with the Museum. She described the Museum as a statewide-serving institution on a 5.5-acre campus on the harbor/Black River with seven outbuildings.

"The Museum aims to serve both travelers and school districts across both peninsulas," she said. Sisoy-Moore encouraged guests to connect with the Museum's staff on community involvement opportunities

McCole concluded the press conference by encouraging self-guided exploration of the Museum, which he described as a "beautiful and awesome" building.

South Haven athlete going to Lake Michigan

Wyatt Dotson is a senior on South Haven's baseball team.

By John Raffel
Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — Wyatt Dotson is in the middle of his senior baseball season at South Haven but has already decided where he will be taking his talents after high school graduation. Dotson recently signed a letter of intent to play baseball at Lake Michigan College.

"It was my connection to the coaches and knowing my sister is currently a freshman on their softball team," Dotson responded when asked what made him decide on Lake Michigan, "and the community at Lake Michigan College drew me here and knowing I was getting tuition free education for the first two years. And the location brought me there."

It's Dotson third varsity season with South Haven baseball.

"Last year was what stands out the most," Dotson said. "We won conference and went 9-1, and I hit two home runs. The camaraderie we brought to the table was sentimental and it made us stronger."

The year's South Haven team has started out to a 12-5-1 record.

"We had a couple of games in March, which rarely happens but was fun," Dotson said. "We have a lot going for us."

Dotson basically plays center field but he also pitches. His strengths in centerfold "are my ability to read the ball off the bat. I have a strong arm and can fire the ball back to the infield. Being able to read the ball off the bat and having a good arm is a good quality to have."

As a pitcher, his strengths would be "throwing strikes, getting the outs that are needed and forcing groundballs, I use that to my advantage. I have a strong defense and am not afraid to have them hit the ball."

Dotson batted .260 last year. He had a memorable home run against Niles Brandywine as a highlight and many other key hits.

Dotson said he'll let the coaches decide on where he plays at Lake Michigan.

"I'm happy to be part of the squad and am ready to be a Redhawk," he said.

Dotson's goal is for a .300 batting average this season.

Dotson was also a four-year varsity tennis player. He always played doubles

Getting past the regional first round was a top highlight this year.

"I enjoyed it," he said. "It was a sport I never played in my life and I picked it up."

Memorials replaced at Lake View Cemetery

By James Windell

When Wade Bartholomew was walking through Lake View Cemetery last year, he noticed broken pieces of a birdhouse that had been a memorial at Carl Nelson's gravesite.

Instead of just ignoring the deteriorating memorial, he put out a call to the community on social media for help with repair.

Parks Superintendent, Aaron Priebe, hearing about the memorials that were falling apart after 75 years, sent a crew out to take down the birdhouses. While working on this, the group noticed another birdhouse memorial that was in bad shape, near the grave of Arthur Moore. They removed that one as well.

The culmination of Wade Bartholomew's concern was evident in the cemetery on Thursday, April 23, 2026, when a throng of people gathered for the replacing of the birdhouses.

"I always talk about South Haven being so observant and keeping an eye out for the little things that adds so much to our community," said Mayor Annie Brown after the birdhouses were hoisted into place. "This was just such an amazing, generous idea and I want to thank everyone who made this possible."

Jim Ollgaard, President of the Historical Association of South Haven (HASH), said this was a great day for our cemetery "because it shows we care about our beautiful cemetery." "If you know our town well," Ollgaard remarked, "you know that Larry Retherford might volunteer to build a birdhouse. He made reproductions of the exact birdhouses that were originally made by Carl B. Nelson."

Nelsen was a carpenter and long-time resident of South Haven. The birdhouse at his gravesite was the last carpentry he did before he passed away in 1965. The plaque at the foot of the pole holding the birdhouse says that the birdhouse he built was a gift: "A gift to his friends, the birds."

Local craftsmen, Larry Retherford and Ed Appleyard volunteered to work on reproducing both birdhouses over this past winter.

The second birdhouse was replaced near the gravestone of Arthur D. Moore. Moore was a native of South Haven and was the grandson of J. R. Monroe, who originally platted the land for the town. Moore was a merchant, vice-president of the Bank of South Haven, and a former Mayor, who spent many years working with birding societies, counting and banding various species. His granddaughter was able to attend the short ceremony as the birdhouses were replaced.

Ollgaard also said that The HASH is devoted to seeing to it that Lake View Cemetery is taken care of. "I don't know if you're aware of it," he said, "but this is one of the most beautiful cemeteries in Michigan and perhaps in the United States."

Wade Bartholomew also said that he appreciated everyone's help with the project. "The restoration turned out to be fantastic," he said. "It's just amazing that something several decades old could be put back together and made great again. Hopefully, the birdhouses will last another 50 to 100 years."

THE IDEA OF "BETTER ANGELS" WAS INTRODUCED BY ABRAHAM LINCOLN IN HIS PRE-CIVIL WAR FIRST INAUGURAL ADDRESS IN 1861.
Lincoln, A. (2014). First inaugural address. In Abraham Lincoln: God's "Instrument" (pp. 51-62). MDFL (Original work published 1861).
We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature.

Summoning Our Better Angels by Kellie Terry, South Haven artist.

Off the Page is the theme for the 77th Annual Member Exhibition at the South Haven Center for the Arts, opening Friday, May 8 with a reception from 5-7pm. Each spring the South Haven center for the Arts invites members to share artwork of a themed exhibition. This year artists have submitted work in painting, pastel, digital media, fused glass, acrylics, fiber, and more!

Off the Page will feature over 35 artists and nearly 60 pieces of original art work across mediums. In response to this year's theme, many of the artists have created wall-mounted works with elements that emerge from the works surface and works with edges that do not conform to the typical rectangle on the wall, as well as flat work that ponder the theme.

"The member exhibition is such a unique exhibition that as a viewer, it's really interesting to see how the artist will interpret the theme each year," says Jenna Myny, Center for the Arts Administrator. "The theme this year kind of stumped some artists, but now the pieces being brought in by the artist and it's all really beautiful work, as usual! Many pieces have drawn inspiration from books, stories and magazines. It's always a joy seeing an exhibition come together, and this one is no exception."

Among the artists featured in this exhibition are several artists joining the member exhibition for the first time. Included will be Talisha Cannaday with her oil and mixed media piece, What was Written, What Remains! Echoes of Grace, of which the artist writes "music has the power to take the mind anywhere it wants to go. What begins with lyrics on a page can move off the page and into imagination and space!" Deborah Correnti a South Haven artist, will be exhibiting two paintings inspired by the writing of Emily Brontë and Emily Dickinson while South Haven artists Taylor Joachim brings hyperbolic geometry off the page through two hyperbolic crochet pieces and Kellie Terry is inspired by the words of Abraham Lincoln.

Community members will have the opportunity to talk to artist about their works at the opening reception which will also include hors devours and wine. Most art works are for sale and the purchase of art supports both local artists and the South Haven Center for the Arts.

Hours are Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, 11am–4pm, and Thursday, 11am–6pm
